Having a child through surrogacy
Department of Health, 28 February 2018
Information for intended parents, surrogates and health professionals about the surrogacy process in England and Wales.

Baby steps service: scale-up evaluation
The NSPCC has published findings from an implementation evaluation of the scale-up of the Baby steps service, an evidence-based perinatal education programme that helps vulnerable parents prepare for parenthood. Findings from surveys and interviews gathering the views of a range of stakeholders in the first six ‘early adopter’ sites indicate that: the scale-up of Baby steps progressed well, with all early adopter sites having delivered the programme during the implementation phase; it is a highly valued programme and there was a sense that the programme was helping families.

Harmful sexual behaviour resources
The University of Bedfordshire has created online resources to help address harmful sexual behaviour (HSB) in schools. Resources include: a traffic-light tool for self-assessment, webinars that explain how to use the tool and a spreadsheet to record the scores of self-assessment. These resources align with the multi-agency HSB framework produced by the NSPCC, Research in Practice and the University of Durham.

Reporting and acting on child abuse and neglect
The government has published a summary of responses and government action following the Reporting and acting on child abuse and neglect consultation carried out between July and October 2016. The government response to the evidence and the views raised include: the government does not intend to introduce a mandatory reporting duty or duty to act at this time; strengthening information sharing between agencies involved in keeping children safe; building on the Together, we can tackle child abuse campaign; and improving multi-agency working, in particular local information sharing.

Help to overcome abuse
NICE has published a short guide for young people receiving support following child abuse and neglect. The guide, written by young people who have experienced abuse or neglect, outlines messages from the NICE guideline on child abuse and neglect (published in October 2017), which the young people felt were most important to highlight.
